

Speed physician adoption with a comprehensive view of patient records

The Payoff

- Encourages EMR adoption
- Provides physicians with unified patient picture
- Tailors views to physician needs

---

The Basics

Adoption is vitally important to the success of any software implementation. With the new federal healthcare IT standards, achieving and maintaining high adoption rates is key to satisfying meaningful use. That means there's more pressure than ever before on the adoption of EMRs. Giving physicians a single and complete view of patient information goes a long way in physician acceptance and use of EMRs.

The Challenges

To see the full value of EMRs, physicians can't be digging through paper files and opening other software applications to get a full patient picture.

- Physicians are frustrated that they still don't have patient information all in one location even with an EMR in place
- Physicians think and work differently from one another and it's often difficult to accommodate those differences in an EMR

The Solution

The OnBase Physician Portal gives physicians and clinicians the unified patient view they need. It provides real-time access to information from Meditech and all other clinical systems in a single online view. That way, they have one place to go for patient information instead of many. They can see lab results, radiology data, pharmacy data (including allergies), discharge summaries, nursing documents, EKGs, PACS images and more.

What's even better is that the OnBase Physician Portal can be customized by specialty to highlight areas that are clinically relevant to a given physician's role on the patient's care team. Physicians automatically see a dashboard view for their specific clinical discipline. The Physician Portal can also be personalized by each physician to meet his or her individual preferences and needs. That way, they can work how they work best.
